Foreword from the Principal

It is an honour to offer the Institute of Design Education & Architectural Studies' 2021–2022 Annual Report. Significant academic accomplishments have been made possible by the full backing of management, respected professional organisations, and the fierce resolve and dedication of the student community, bringing honour to the institutions. All initiatives aimed at advancements must be handled with the utmost caution in the current context of our nation's swiftly changing landscape. Preparing architects who can contribute to and handle the needs of society with mental equanimity and a socially responsible attitude is essential in this effort.

The top architecture schools in the nation include IDEAS. Every semester, year after year, practically all of our students are placed first on the RTMNU exams. The college offers undergraduate and graduate B. Arch and M. Arch programmes that are approved by the Council of Architecture and connected with RTMNU.

Through its undergraduate and graduate programmes, IDEAS has so far graduated and post-graduated over 700 individuals who have been distinctly placed in a variety of professional and public organisations both domestically and abroad. Their professional efforts in these organisations have yielded an excellence seal and positive comments for acceptable and market-ready qualities. It is the result of the institute's unique teaching pedagogy, which includes on-site exposure and demonstration through hands on based creative assignments to supplement practical knowledge. It is the best campus learning experience. The institute has adopted online teaching and learning techniques using internal e-learning resources and video conferencing capabilities in response to shifting market trends and impending demands.

In order to teach aspirant students and provide them with the creative and technical information and skills they need in light of the current and future market need, IDEAS has built a high quality academic and co-curricular framework. The institute launched a postgraduate programme (M.Arch) in environmental architecture as a result of its strong desire and commitment to serve society and the environment in accordance with its vision and mission statements. This flagship programme goes above and beyond to cultivate in aspirants the qualities relevant to sensitivity and intelligent approach towards meaningful design. It specialises in promoting regional values, sustainable, and environmentally friendly practices of habitat creation. These experts then discover their career options in these organisations that have a focus on such areas, giving them a valuable advantage in the workplace. At the institute level, it is an accomplishment to note the good impact of several hundred of these graduates and postgraduates, giving the institute a significant advantage over the others. In addition, IDEAS offers a variety of tailored induction programmes for both beginners and intermediates, including Summer Design Studios, Winter Design Studios, RDS, LDS, UDS, IDo, IShow, and others. These programmes are designed to foster students' creativity and put an emphasis on their overall professional development.

All mentors at IDEAS are dedicated to sustaining an environment that is both intellectually stimulating and professionally competent by encouraging our students to have creative mindsets and technical proficiency. The overall development of our students and the institute is greatly influenced by our mentors. With the firm conviction that innovation and creativity are the key pillars of survival in the modern world, we continuously develop new learning possibilities for our students that go above and beyond what the typical university curriculum could offer.

IDEAS has made significant progress in a short period of time and has had a significant impact not only on the city but also on the entire region. While pursuing their higher education, our students have excelled professionally in both the domestic and international arenas as well as in Indian and international colleges. IDEAS is currently one of the top institutions for new, ambitious and creative architectural students. We are confident that IDEAS will continue to flourish as a top institution thanks to the best infrastructure currently in place, our highly qualified professors, a driven group of students, and a lively environment. We are confident that in the coming years, we will be regarded as one of the best at the national level.

We look for the way of morality, bravery, and knowledge in all of our endeavors. May we serve as the driving force behind all of our initiatives to develop better architects and people who can have a positive impact on our society and contribute to build our country in these turbulent and constantly changing times.

Warm regards & Good wishes!
